FARM BUREAU DRIVE ON USE OF LIME

Farmers Obtain Low Prices in Car Lots

County Agent Eastman of Twin County has recently started on campaign to get the farmers in Androscoggin and Sagadahoc Counties to use more lime. Four carloads have already been ordered. This part of the state should be well sweetened, for Oxford County farmers are also having the opportunity, to secure lime at car-lot prices. D. H. Midley, Oxford County Agent, is heading the drive through community crops project leaders.

Most of the soils need lime and yet most farmers do not seem to take to the idea of getting together carload lots to take advantage of lower rates and quantity discounts.

Lime is the best friend the farm has, says the County Agent. Information as to prices, the amounts and kinds can be had from the county agent as well as soil tests for acidity. A tablespoonful of soil sent to the office at South Paris will be tested and the verdict received in short order.

The following crops project leaders also have the information and will take orders:

Frank Langovin, Andover.
L. C. Stevens, Bethel.
Harry Durgin, Brownfield.
S. M. Bonney, Buckfield.
Dwight Bisset, Canton.
H. N. Evans, Denmark (Bridgton R. F. D.).
William Hastings, East Bethel.
Frank Gray, Fryeburg.
A. M. Noble, Hiram.
L. L. Haines, Mexico.
E. E. Allen, East Stoneham.
L. J. Abbott, North Paris.
Leslie Millett, Norway.
Charles Harvey, North Waterford.
Ernest Talbot, South Paris.
H. B. Crockett, Sumner.
D. K. Elliott, Rumford Point.

FOOD PRICES LOWER.

Food prices in February this year reached a point 17.14 percent lower than January, 1930. Prices declined in every month of 1930 except April and September. These facts are shown in compilations just completed by First National Stores Inc., based on the Massachusetts food index number as used by the Commission on Necessary of Life. In 1930 the greatest monthly drop came in November, 2.80 percent. In October, February, 1931 saw the lowest decline for fourteen months, or 4.92 percent.

Representative Richmond L. Melcher, Rumford, who suffered a shock Friday night in front of the Blaine mansion while on his way to Governor Gardner's supper for legislators following adjournment of the 85th legislature, died Saturday morning in the governor's home. He was 70 years old.

Representative Melcher was born in Brunswick Sept. 8, 1860, son of Osborne A. and Marjorie Y. Melcher. He was educated in Brunswick. His first wife, Lizzie White of Brunswick, whom he married in 1884, died in 1890. In 1893 he married Miss Maud Merrill of Andover, who survives, as do a daughter, Mrs. Jose Grume, Brooklyn, N. Y., a teacher of Spanish and a son, Richmond, Jr., of Arlington, Mass., who is in the lumber business.

For several years he had been a dealer in timber lands. For six years he was selectman and assessor of Rumford. He was president and director of the Clark Foundry Co. and president of the Mason Manufacturing Co., South Paris.

His standing in his home town of Rumford is best attested by the fact that he had served five consecutive terms in the house of representatives, being elected on numerous occasions when the Republicans swept the town for other places. He had served in the house in 1923, 1925, 1927, 1929 and 1931.

He was a member of the Rotary Club of Rumford, and had always taken the keenest interest in its success, as well as a sincere interest in the general welfare of the town of Rumford.

Mr. Melcher was prominent in fraternal organizations, being a past chancellor commander of the Knights of Pythias, charter member and past exalted ruler of the Rumford Lodge of Elks, a member of all the Masonic bodies at Rumford, and was a Shriner. He was a trustee of the Rumford Falls Trust Co. He attended the Methodist church.—Oxford Democrat.

Miss Virginia Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Chapman, who has been confined to her home several months with illness, has so far recovered as to be able to return to school this spring.

4-H CLUB NEWS

"The Pleasant River Garden Club" of Mason met at the home of their leader, Fred J. Lucejoy, on Saturday to reorganize.

The following officers were elected: President—Walter Grover. Secretary—Treasurer—Paul Grover. Vice-President—Lena Mack. Song Leader—Rupert Grover. Cheer Leader—Alice Moore.

The boys are working for an interesting summer work. Most of them are planning to garden or grow corn. Some will take a few stock projects.

In the last year seven prizes at the County Contest, and the honor of coming in exhibitor to the State Seed Show at Portland getting a prize there.

The "Seven Busy Boys" of Mason are busy working on their seedling projects. Miss Evelyn Plummer, County Club Agent, recently spent an afternoon with the girls and taught them to draft a simple pattern. These girls all won prizes in their several projects and were a huge club in 1930.

4-H Club work is certainly a wonderful thing for our boys and girls and it is pleasing to note that the number of enrollments increases each year. Oxford County headed the list of counties in Maine in this respect in 1930, a fact of which we should be proud.

NATION'S TYPICAL BOY AND DOG SOUGHT HERE

The Chappel Kennel Foundation, Rockford, Illinois, in its search for the nation's typical youngster and canine pal, has appealed to the Citizen for aid in finding them if they happen to be located in this section.

Two hundred and fifty dollars in cash and immortality by having their likenesses reproduced in oil on canvas by a famous artist await the chosen pair, which the Foundation is anxious to preserve for the inspiration of future generations as a symbol of the high type of companionship represented by the boy-dog combination of our own day. The winning team will also be presented to many notables, will probably be starred on the radio and in the movies, and in general enjoy the plaudits of an admiring multitude.

Selection of the winning pair is to be left in the hands of a jury of prominent men and women, which is now being completed. The choice is to be made from nominations, which the public is invited to submit to the Foundation prior to Sept. 15, 1931. Photographs of contestants may be submitted with the nominations, but a final decision will not be made by the judges until they have seen and investigated the leading candidates.

To be eligible for nomination to the boy-and-dog contest, a youngster must not be under four or over fourteen years of age. The dog must be his own or that of a member of his immediate family. The age, size, color or breed of the dog are secondary importance.

In inaugurating the boy-dog search, L. J. Broome, director of the Foundation, stated:

"Character building in the youth is one of the great problems of the time. The Foundation is convinced that a dog makes a boy a better man and is encouraging every home with a boy to keep a pure bred dog. A recent study of a large penal institution revealed the fact that less than one percent of its inmates had a pet to play with in their formative years. Though the boy dog contest, the Foundation hopes to catch the spirit of this comradeship and perpetuate it in some tangible form for this and future generations."

And the cost is nothing except being of good character, able to obtain recommendations from responsible citizens to that effect, being able to pass the physical tests and willing to spend 30 days at Fort McKinley. The Government pays for transportation to and from the camp and furnishes all equipment and food and good lodging in comfortable army barracks while at the fort.

This is a C. M. T. C. year. More boys than ever before are applying for places at the camps, and this report comes from all sections of the country. Some boys have filled their quota. If you want to get in apply early.

900 BOYS WILL ATTEND C. M. T. C. AT FORT MCKINLEY

Are you a boy who likes to swim, or play ball, or have you talent in field or track sports? Or are you the parent of such a boy who would like to have the youngster have 30 days vacation where he will have ample opportunity to participate of sports of various sorts, perhaps win medals for proficiency in one or more, and have plenty of good food, excellent training and certified companions representing the best youngsters of northern New England?

If the answer is "Yes" to either question, the announcement of the War Department that Fort McKinley has again been selected as a site for one of the New England (Citizen's Military Training Camps for 1931), will prove interesting. Some 900 boys will be accepted. Large number of them previous students at camps during the past three years.

Afternoons at camp will be devoted to organized athletics under the direction of competent instructors. Swimming, track and field events, baseball, and football will all be taught and teams made up of boys from the various companies will compete for camp as well as for individual honors. Scores of medals of gold, silver and bronze will be awarded the winners at the close of the camp.

And the cost is nothing except being of good character, able to obtain recommendations from responsible citizens to that effect, being able to pass the physical tests and willing to spend 30 days at Fort McKinley. CAN I Learn to Fly? —By—
WILLIAM R. NELSON

Spiraling Down
SPIRALING down to earth is another airplane maneuver that looks easy but is found difficult by the embryo pilot. Spiraling is easy, but judging distances when cocked over on one side and slipping earthward, intent upon landing on or just over a given line, is another story.

"To make a spiral spot landing," my instructor explained, "climb to 2,000 feet—that is the altitude generally specified by the Department of Commerce examiner—and cut the motor directly over the spot on which you intend to land. Be headed into the wind.

"Put the nose down in a glide, then bank to whichever side you desire to turn, and hold the turn for one tight revolution. Extend the circumference of the next turn so it will end at the ground on or just over your spot line."

I did as directed but could not tell where we were half of the time. The peculiar "as my side" position and the worry of not judging distance correctly upset me, so my first spiral was hardly recognizable as such.

Being already in a turn and headed down, I kept worrying about the angle of glide. If it were not sufficient, I might stall the plane and slip into a fall. My nervousness made me overly cautious and I made the second turn too tight, leaving about 300 feet of altitude to be lost when the second turn ended.

I turned back to 2,000 feet for another attempt. That time I discovered that by leaning to the right of the wind through the turn, I could judge the distance and make a fall. If the engine stalled I could forward on the ground safely. It is understood that I had it.

A half hour of practice gave me the time to complete a spiral and land. It was a good deal of practice, but I was able to do it. I had a good deal of practice, but I was able to do it. I had a good deal of practice, but I was able to do it.

George Eastman
The young bank clerk was in need of a vacation. He had been working hard in the confinement of a bank.

His health was poor. He planned on taking a trip to San Domingo, where the United States was likely to buy a naval base, according to the gossip of the day. He told the engineer of the bank of his plans. The latter advised him to take a photographic outfit with him. This was in the days of President Grant's administration.

While the trip never materialized, George Eastman, the young bank clerk, then and there began a deep study of photography. He had been interested in the art from the time he was fifteen years old, but he had never really applied himself to the study of the subject.

The result of his studies gave the world the Kodak and the modern process of photography.

George Eastman was born in Waterville, N. Y., in 1854. A few years later his father moved to Rochester where he established a commercial school, teaching his pupils business methods by actual experience. The father died in 1860.

George was an only son. He was a quiet and somewhat shy lad. His mother made many sacrifices to keep him in school until he was fourteen years old. She taught him never to buy anything unless he could pay for it, with the result that he was never in debt.

He got his first job as an office boy in an insurance office. His wages amounted to $3 a week. He worked his way up until he was getting $800 a year. Frequently he labored over his books eleven hours a day.

He had a chance to become a bookkeeper in a savings bank at $1,000 a year. The young man didn't hesitate about accepting an opportunity that brought with it such a substantial increase in salary. When his pay was low his mother had taken in boarders so as to keep a nice home for her only son.

He was twenty years old when he went to work in the bank. He remained there seven years, during which time he took up the study of photography in earnest in view of his contemplated trip to the West Indies. He bought a camera and took lessons on the wet plate process. Glass plates were in use then. They had to be sensitized before using, a tedious process.

This meant that the photographer of the day had to carry a bulky equipment if he worked in the field. Treatment of the plates made it necessary to take a silver bath and dark tent so as to prepare the plates properly to receive an image.

The amateur enthusiast took such an equipment with him on a trip to Lake Superior, which was a substitute for the planned but not carried out excursion to San Domingo. His experience on his vacation showed him that the joys of picture taking could be made available to every one only through the perfection of a process which would substitute compact and light equipment for the bulky paraphernalia and eliminate the tedious process of preparing each plate.

Meanwhile his career in the bank was not progressing to suit him. The official, whose assistant he was, resigned his position. Young Eastman's work had been most satisfactory. He looked forward confidently to moving up a notch and succeeding his immediate superior.

But he didn't get the job. The place went to a relative of one of the directors of the institution. That son of a gun told him that he had better get out of the bank as soon as possible. He determined to go on his own when he could see the way clear to do so.

He related a small story for his own amusement in the old days. He couldn't find out what was the matter with the bank, but he was sure that he was clear to do so. He was sure that he was clear to do so. He was sure that he was clear to do so.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

Easter Sunday what a beautiful day! A day of rejoicing. A day to begin anew as followers of Christ's teachings.

School begins again this Monday morning after one week's vacation, and how anxious every child seems to be to engage in the play of the school yard but when the bell rings, like well trained soldiers they all march to their lessons, each striving to do their best.

Read Commissioner Tyler is doing a lot of good work on the highways. We notice that rocks of all sizes are being utilized. The day has gone by when dirt was sufficient. Stones and small rocks are the stuff for bad road holes.

Fred Hendrickson remains very poorly, suffering from a severe nervous affliction, necessitating the daily attendance of a physician.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll J. Cummings of West Paris recently spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Davis at the Davis Homestead.

The death of Mrs. Gene Swan took place at South Paris at the home of her sister-in-law, Miss Edna Swan, on April 2. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon at Norway. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. Annie Davis of this place and Mrs. Nellie Merrill of Norway; two brothers, Horatio Bryant and Dannie Bryant of Bryant Pond; eight nephews and nieces to mourn the loss of their beloved sister and "Aunt Gene." Mrs. Swan was the daughter of Daniel and Hannah Davis Bryant of Greenwood, both deceased, the mother passing away suddenly several years ago. Mrs. Swan spent her early life at the paternal home, attended the Bryant school of that place. While there she became acquainted with and married Al Swan of South Paris who in early life was stricken and died leaving his wife and sister Edna. When ever possible she attended the Baptist church of Bryant Pond, and was a Sunday school pupil with her sister Nellie of the late Mrs. Emily J. Felt of that church.

Mrs. Lura Thorn and "Little Bille" were calling in the place recently. She reported that her mother was very ill of pneumonia at the home of an uncle. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Bradbury, was a milliner of wide renown and in former years had rooms for display of millinery at Bethel, Andover, Rumford, and many other towns.

Yes, we are on the map. Some have had mumps, some measles, some influenza, some whooping cough.

TWO-MINUTE SERMON
by REV. GEORGE HENRY

FORGIVENESS

What the world needs in kindness. Remember this, ye who are preaching hatred and intolerance. God "is kind to the unthankful and the evil." Christ prayed for those who crucified Him, and Stephen for those who stoned him. Then how can you refuse to forgive? Your salvation depends upon your treatment of others. You are fooling yourself if you think you can avenge yourself and at the same time receive a receipt in full for your sins against the Almighty. Christ taught his disciples to pray, "forgive us as we forgive." He said, "if you forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive you." No man is so unhappy as the man who cherishes enmity. The offender is the man who needs our sympathy, for he is his own worst enemy, and is condemned by the act.

NORTH WOODSTOCK

Howard Smith of West Paris has been visiting his cousin, Mrs. Edgar Davis.

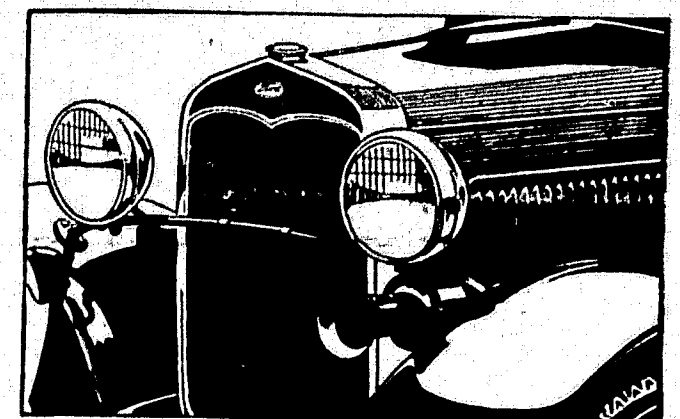

Mrs. Frank Coffren has begun her duties at Birch Villa.

Herman Fuller is improving in health and expects to go to work this week. Miss Helen Hanta of West Paris spent the week end with Maxine Fuller. Sunday afternoon they went to Rumford to see Mrs. Peter Dragoon (Hilda Ring) who is seriously ill at the Rumford Community Hospital.

Mrs. Harry Stevens is going to care for Stanley Barrett during the day. Frank Coffren and Evelyn Barrett were at their home here Sunday.

Evanah Fuller visited relatives at West Paris last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coburn (Ruth Forbes) are visiting Mrs. Coburn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Forbes.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE OF FORD VALUE

Bright, enduring
RUSTLESS STEEL is used for many exposed bright metal parts of the Ford

WHEN YOU BUY a Ford you buy enduring beauty. The body finish is made to last for the life of the car and practically all exposed bright metal parts except the bumpers are made of enduring Rustless Steel.

This Rustless Steel has great tensile strength. It is the same bright metal all the way through. A salt test equivalent to forty years' service under the severest weather conditions failed to have any effect on its brilliance. It never requires polishing. All you do is wipe it with a damp cloth, as you do your windshield.

This is just one of many features that show the substantial worth of the Ford. In speed, comfort, safety, economy and long life—in the richness of its finish and upholstery—it brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

Call or phone for demonstration.

Good Advertisements Sell Goods

Every week this paper goes into the homes of this community where it is carefully read.

Not only the news but the advertisements as well, are read. Not a week should go by that it does not contain at least some sort of message from each business represented in this community.

This does not mean that it is necessary to advertise a special sale or cut prices. It is not. Thousands of advertisers never offer reduced prices or special sales. They merely tell, in an interesting way, the story of their store and the goods they have to sell, and in so doing create a desire in the mind of the reader, and make of him a new customer.

A well prepared advertisement is nothing more nor less than a well prepared sales talk.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

L. A. Edwards, Pastor. Church School. The contest is over, but the School continues, and last Sunday was a banner one for attendance; so we conclude that the boys and girls did not attend during the contest just to be counted.

10:45. Morning Worship. The Pastor's subject will be, "Rebellion, Re-signation or Reconciliation?"

Do you ever rebel against conditions that cannot be helped? Do you regard it as a virtue that you accept things as they are without protest? The theologians of yesterday taught that in some way God must be reconciled to man. Do you think that there ever was a time when God's anger needed to be appeased?

8:30. Come to the Comrades meeting. What should the church of the future be like? Come with your own ideas and let's hear them. If you were called upon to formulate the policies of the future what would they be?

Something Better and Safer Than Aspirin

Thousands of men and women are now stopping throbbing, sick, dizzy, splitting headaches, as well as the excruciating pains of rheumatism, neuritis, toothache, etc., with a marvelous new formula that is said to be far superior to any thing heretofore used.

It contains no aspirin, acetanilid, etc., and is absolutely safe and harmless.
